

Eyes wide open

Words & Music by Dave James Hendrikse

There's a new day dawning
I crawled out of my bed this morning
With a smell of whiskey on my breath

Another day older
But the same shit on my shoulder
(I can) Feel the rope still hangin' around my neck

I may not be your kind of man
But I'm just not, like the others
And if you couldn't give a damn,
Then you would not be here and bother

Till there was you
I slept with my eyes wide open
Till there was you
My life wouldn't be the same

There's a new day dawning
I had to clear my head this morning
So I kicked my mistress out of bed
Never made it as a wise man
Tired of tears, and all that I am
And these conversations in my head

Dave James ©Oktober 2016

Milk